

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A sequencing method and a bridging system for accessing a shared system resource capable of increasing transmission rate and reducing transmission error when a plurality of master controllers need to access the shared system resource. The 5 sequencing method includes providing each transaction with a transaction identification value and a master identification value. In addition, each master controller is also assigned an access priority.

09022045 080304
TOP SECRET